Understand the Financial Aid Process

The financial aid process is often confusing for students and parents. Which forms need to be filed and when? How does the financial aid formula work? How do colleges use a student's information to award financial aid? This section will give a first look into this often complex system and hopefully answer many of your initial questions. By breaking down the process, students and parents hopefully can approach the financial aid system with less fear and more confidence (and hopefully in a way that maximizes their financial aid eligibility!).

Learn Where the Money Is

Figuring out how to pay for college can seem overwhelming. There are many financial aid options, different places where aid can come from, and various rules governing who gets what which can leave even seasoned students and parents who have been through the process before more than a little confused. This section is designed to give you an introduction to the various types and sources of financial aid, as well as places to look for additional dollars and tax breaks. You also will find numerous links to other resources in each section which can provide even greater details on some of the information you see here, so that when you are ready to dig a little deeper, more help is at your fingertips.

Discover Ways to Save for College

Most families will have to pay some portion of the college costs with resources from their own wallets. This can be tough, especially when families have not planned for the college years far enough in advance. In this section, you will find information on tax-advantaged ways to save for college, a calculator that can show you the power of early (and frequent!) savings, and other places you may not think to look for extra cash during the "crunch years."

While the cost issue is often the single largest concern of students and parents planning for college, there are many other steps students must take to prepare academically and otherwise for the college years. In this section, you will find a variety of helpful tips such as: how to approach the admission process, how to prepare for college entrance exams, how to have a successful campus visit, and more. Be sure to check out the upcoming Ask the Expert sessions too in which you can learn from experts at the National Center for College Costs and get your questions answered related to financial aid, college admissions and other related topics. And the FAQ section will provide answers to questions thousands of students and parents before you have asked over and over again.

Top 10 Things to Remember:

1. Your Indiana high school diploma matters!
2. Take the SAT and/or ACT before your senior year.
3. Make sure to look at colleges that will challenge you, not just the ones you think you can afford.
4. Find out early at which colleges your finances will work best...and where they will not!
5. Visit, visit, visit!
6. Apply to more than one college.
7. Know your admission deadlines...and beat them!
8. File the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) by March 10th of your senior year.
9. In a financial aid award, remember to take the federal student loan first!
10. Remember the "Big 3":
 1. Go to class every day
 2. Work first, then play
 3. Join a campus activity

- Gathering Your Information:

In order to expedite the completion of the ICCE, it is wise to have the following information handy before starting:

- Parent and student tax forms (1040EZ, 1040A or 1040) and/or W-2s
- Parent and student untaxed income information
- Parent and student asset information
- Parent business and/or farm records, if applicable

Because actual federal, state, and institutional financial aid is based on the forms and information listed above, it is important you provide the same information in order to produce accurate estimates.*

A Few Reminders Before Entering the Tool:

- These figures do not represent final determinations of financial assistance or a final net price from any college or university.
- These figures are simply estimates to be used for informational purposes only.
- The cost of attendance and available financial aid change from year to year and vary among institutions.
- Students must complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) in order to be eligible for, and receive, federal, state, and institutional financial aid.

Student Information

Is the student a U.S. Citizen? *

 Yes No

Is the student a U.S. Permanent Resident? ?

 Yes No

Dependency

What is the student's date of birth? *

This is needed to determine the student's dependency status.Please type a forward slash (/) or use the mouse or arrow keys to navigate to the top part of the date field

In what academic year does the student plan to begin his/her first undergraduate year of study? *

 ▼

The following questions will be used to determine the student's dependency status. Answering "yes" to any one of these questions will mean that the student is considered an independent student. Answering "yes" to either of the top two will also mean that the student has dependents.

Does the student have children who will receive more than half of their financial support from the student in the upcoming academic year?

 Yes No

Does the student have dependents (other than children or a spouse) who live with the student and who receive more than half of their financial support from the student and will continue to receive more than half of their financial support from the student in the upcoming academic year?

 Yes No

Permanent Resident Status:

According to the 2010-2011 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA):

"Generally, you are an eligible noncitizen if you are: 1) a permanent U.S. resident with a Permanent Resident Card (I-551); 2) a conditional permanent resident (I-551C); or 3) the holder of an Arrival-Departure Record (I-94) from the Department of Homeland Security showing any one of the following designations: 'Refugee', 'Asylum Granted', 'Parolee' (I-94 confirms that you were paroled for a minimum of one year and status has not expired), 'Victim of human trafficking', 'T-Visa holder' (T-1, T-2, T-3, etc.), or 'Cuban-Haitian Entrant.' If you are in the U.S. on an F1 or F2 student visa, a J1 or J2 exchange visitor visa, or a G series visa (pertaining to international organizations), select 'No, I am not a citizen or eligible noncitizen.' You will not be eligible for federal student aid; however, you should still complete the application because you may be eligible for state or college aid."

Family - Step 3 of 6

Previous

As of today, is either of the student's parents a dislocated worker? *

 Yes No Don't know

Dislocated Worker:

In general, a person may be considered a dislocated worker if he or she:

- is receiving unemployment benefits due to being laid off or losing a job and is unlikely to return to a previous occupation;
- has been laid off or received a lay-off notice from a job;
- was self-employed but is now unemployed due to economic conditions or natural disaster; or
- is a displaced homemaker. A displaced homemaker is generally a person who previously provided unpaid services to the family (e.g., a stay-at-home mom or dad), is no longer supported by the husband or wife, is unemployed or underemployed, and is having trouble finding or upgrading employment.

If a person quits work, generally he or she is not considered a dislocated worker even if, for example, the person is receiving unemployment benefits.

Your Calculated EFC

The Expected Family Contribution (EFC) is calculated using the household and financial information you provided. The EFC is calculated each year a student is in college (following completion of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid, or FAFSA) and colleges use this figure to develop student-specific financial aid awards annually.

Expected Family Contribution

Student Income Contribution	$0
Student Asset Contribution	$200
Parent Income & Asset Contribution	$1,996
Total Expected Family Contribution	$2,196

Student Income Contribution (SIC)

You didn't make more money than the 2013-2014 federal formula allows, currently $6,130 plus FICA (Social Security and Medicare) taxes withheld from your wages, any federal taxes you paid and an allowance for state taxes. The formula requires 50% of excess income beyond what the formula allows be added onto the Expected Family Contribution as a Student Income Contribution. Check back with this site if you want the latest cutoff on earnings in a future calendar year.

Student Asset Contribution (SAC)

The 2013-2014 federal formula requires that 20% of the money in an account owned and controlled by the student be added on to the Expected Family Contribution as a Student Asset Contribution. With $1,000 in student assets, $200 is added onto the Expected Family Contribution. Check back with this site in future calendar years to see if this is still the case.

Parent Income and Asset Contribution (PC)

Based on 4 in the household and 1 in college with a total income of $41,000 ($40,000 in taxable income and $1,000 in untaxed income adjustments) and $71,000 in adjusted parent assets, a contribution of $1,996 currently would be expected from parent income and assets in the above EFC.

Parent assets are treated differently than student assets under the federal formula because parents have a household to maintain and have to save for retirement if they can. Based on marital status (married) and the age of the older parent in your household as of December 31, 2013 (55), for the 2013-2014 academic year your asset protection amount is $46,800. With $71,000 in assets entered, this amount exceeds the $46,800 in assets you get to protect, thus there is a Parent Asset Contribution as a part of your overall Parent Contribution. When we drop the amount of assets to the $46,800 of assets that you currently get to protect, your Parent Contribution drops to $1,357, thus $639 of your current Parent Contribution is coming from your excess assets beyond what the formula allows. The rest of your $1,996 Parent Contribution is the result of the income figures you have given us. Check back with this site if you want the latest asset protection amount in a future calendar year.

Exclusions

Important Notes:

1. These estimates are for informational purposes only and are based on first-time, full-time, freshmen undergraduate students. They do not represent a final determination of financial assistance or a final net price. Actual eligibility cannot be determined until all admission and financial aid applications have been received and processed.
2. The above estimates do not include private scholarship funds which could be applied to remaining costs. Keep in mind colleges can not create financial aid awards that exceed the estimated cost of attendance, so outside scholarships may reduce eligibility for other forms of financial aid.
3. Marian University does not discriminate on the basis of race, ethnicity, color, sex, gender, sexual orientation, religion, creed, national origin, age or disabilities in the recruiting and selection of students for admission.
